LONDON: Crowds gathered outside the House of Parliament today, awaiting news of the Prime Minister's health, were further concerned when Foreign Minister Smythe announced that news from Germany is black. Riots are reported to have broken out all along the Coast, and the government is reported to be in chaos. The Kaiser may even be dead. Investigations started when our own Embassy in Berlin dropped communications some weeks ago, and only today did Commander-in-Chief Lev Bronstein take actions. British marines are reported to be moving into Kiel and Holland to keep order, while a search is being conducted for representatives of the Kaiser, the Chancellor, the Bundesrat, or the Reichstag. Things look grim in Germany.
